WEDNESDAY, July 27, 1748.

MECHLIN, May 2.

THE detachment commanded by M. de Coligñon, lieutenant-general of a body of Huſſars in the ſervice of the States General, on the 28th of laſt month carried off all the corn which was to be ſent to the camp before Maeſtricht, which greatly alarmed us; and the next day the ſame officer ſet fire to all the boats laden with hay, ſtraw, and faſcines which were at Schelt, a village upon the Scheld. He was purſued, but it was impoſſible to overtake him.

Peterſburg, April 2. The Weather having begun to be more moderate, double Diligence is uſed in equipping the Men of War, Frigates and Galleys, to the End that the Fleet may be ready to ſail towards the End of next Month. 'Tis ſtill aſſured that 16,000 Foot will be put on board this Fleet to be tranſported to the Low-Countries, in caſe the French make any Delay in concluding a juſt Peace.

Vienna, April 21. It may be depended upon, that we have at length gained a conſiderable Aſcendency over the French at the Porte. The Baggage of the Turkiſh Ambaſſador is already arrived, and he is ſpeedily expected in this City, with preſents to the Value of 200 Sequins. The Weather being grown better, the Ruſſian Forces march at a great Rate, and will arrive at Moravia ſome Days ſooner than was expected. It is ſaid that Prince Charles of Lorrain will very ſpeedily ſet out for Italy, in order to take Poſſeſſion of the Dutchy of Guaſtalla, which he is to hold as a Fief of the Empire. Her Imperial Majeſty has directed Prince Lewis of Wolfenbuttle, to acquaint Major General Haddich with her Intention to beſtow upon him the firſt Regiment of Huſſars that ſhall become vacant. We begin to conceive great Hopes of the Conferences at Aix la Chapelle, where it is ſaid, that the Count de St. Severin acts with greater Candour than the Miniſters entruſted with the French Affairs did at Breda; ſo that we ſhall very ſoon know whether a Peace is to be expected from the Negociations there or not.

Hague, May 3. His Serene Highneſs the Prince Stadtholder, when he took Leave of the Council of State, delivered himſelf to this Effect:

Noble and Mighty Lords,

You know but too well the unhappy and critical Circumſtances into which our Country has fallen within theſe few Years, by the unjuſt Procedure of the Court of France, without its being in the Power of your Noble Mightineſſes to hinder it, which has been no leſs afflicting to the People in general, than prejudicial to the Glory of my Anceſtors, and of the Welfare of the Low-Countries. I have, for theſe Reaſons, thought it my Duty, not only in virtue of the Dignity with which I am inveſted, but from the Effect of that ſincere Love which I bear for my Country, and the Conſideration of the Neceſſity of Affairs, to put myſelf at the Head of my Army, being ready to ſacrifice my Blood for the Sake of Liberty and Religion. It is not any Motive of my particular Glory that engages me to this Step, the Sole End I propoſe to my ſelf in reverſe the Glory of my Anceſtors, and I hope I ſhall not return till our inſtimable Liberty is effectually ſecured by a good Peace, or by the Succeſs of my Arms. I do not in the leaſt doubt but your Noble Mightineſſes will aſſiſt and aſſiſt me, with the ſame Zeal and Fidelity with which I am ready to ſacrifice my Life for the Preſervation of my Subjects. It is upon this that I rely, and ſhall ſet out this Evening or To-morrow Morning.

Accordingly his Serene Highneſs ſet out from hence on Wedneſday, the firſt of this Month, at Half an Hour after one, for Breda, accompanied by her Royal Highneſs, who parted with him between Delft and Rotterdam, and returned thither the ſame Evening. It is believed that his Serene Highneſs reached Breda Yeſterday, whither the General Officers, that compoſed the Council of War, will go on Monday next.

Liege, April 25. The French began to fire upon Maeſtricht the 21ſt Inſt. at eight in the Morning, with 103 Cannon and Mortars, but the Fire from the Town was ſo brisk and well ſerved, as to entirely diſmount a large Battery of Cannon, and another of Mortars. The French ſuffer much by Water in their Trenches; the Horſes ſink above their Knees in the Camp; and the want of Forage begins to be felt among them, which will not ſoon be remedied, as there are only three Boats now lying at Namur. Part of the Cavalry which was about Bruſſels has been moved ſo as to be within 24 Hours March of the Camp. The Enemy have not entirely finiſhed the ſecond Parallel, nor brought their Batteries near enough to ruin the Defences of the Town. M. Aylva has hitherto made a gallant Defence, and the French confeſs no Artillery was ever better ſerved. The wet Weather has made their Troops very ſickly.

April 30. The Night between the 25th and 26th the Garriſon made a Sally, tore up the Beſiegers Gabions, and level'd Part of their Works. The French continued advancing their Works towards the Cover'd Way till between the 28th and 29th Inſt. when Marſhal Saxe attacked it with a large Body of Troops, and after a vigorous Reſiſtance carried it; but the Enemy confeſs 900 Grenadiers kill'd, beſides what the ſeveral Regiments have loſt, and wounded. During this, M. Aylva made a Sally on the Wyke Side, which ſucceeded beyond Expectation, for they nail'd up 14 Pieces of Cannon, and kill'd near 1000 of the Beſiegers. A French Regiment that was in the Trenches behaved ill on this Occaſion; The Marquis de Biſſy, Lieutenant General, had his Leg ſhattered in this Action, which was cut off ſoon after. We are poſitively aſſured by a French Officer of Rank, arrived this afternoon from the Camp of the Beſiegers, that they have been entirely beat out of the Cover'd Way again. The Bombardiers of the Garriſon acquire great Reputation, and the French do them Juſtice in all their Accounts. The Governor is already preparing for the Defence of a Breach; and the Beſieging Army has ſuffered ſo much by the bad Weather, and other Accidents that attend it, that it is ſaid they will be obliged to go into Quarters as ſoon as the Siege is over. The Weather is now dry, but very cold. This Day the River became navigable.

Stenbergen, May 6. By virtue of the conditions ſettled with the French at Aix la Chapelle, it was agreed, that Maeſtricht, after the ſiege was over, ſhould remain provitionally in the hands of the French, 'till the ratification of a peace; and then to be evacuated at the ſame time and in the ſame manner as the other places belonging to the States General, poſſeſſed by the troops of France. The Duke of Cumberland, to eaſe the place from undergoing the fatigues which would have riſen from the continuation of the ſiege, on the 3d in the morning, ſent from his quarters at Salem, Lord George Sackville, one of his aid de camps, to marſhal Saxe, that he may propoſe to agree with him about an honourable capitulation for the place; by which the garriſon ſhould march out with all the honours of war, and the town be entered by the French, upon ſpecial condition, that they ſhould touch neither the artillery, nor the magazines thereunto belonging, and that every thing in reſpect of the inhabitants ſhould poſitively remain in the ſame ſtate, till the time of its being reſtored.

Hague, May 7. N. S. An expreſs arrived here early laſt ſunday morning from the Prince of Orange with the News that preliminaries were ſigned at Aix on the 30th of laſt month. The States General were immediately aſſembled and acquainted with this important news; the preliminaries have not yet been laid before them, but it is ſaid that the Prince of Orange intends to do it himſelf the day after to morrow, and that his highneſs is to return on purpoſe to the Hague.

Paris, May 5. We have a report here that the court has received a confirmation of the taking of Pondicherry by the Engliſh and Dutch; which, however, ſeems to have no influence on our actions, for they are mounted up to 1235 livres, tho' it is ſaid this is owing to the ſtrong hopes of a ſpeedy peace.

We

We are assured, that the king is resolved to order the demolition of Bergen-op zoom, on account of the bad air, which carries off daily many soldiers.

From the LONDON GAZETTE, May 7.

By the KING,

A PROCLAMATION.

Declaring the Cessation of Arms, as well by Sea as Land, agreed upon between his Majesty, the most Christian King, and the States General of the United Provinces, and enjoining the Observance thereof.

GEORGE R.

WHEREAS Preliminaries for restoring a General Peace were signed at Aix la Chapelle, on the Nineteenth Day of April last, O. S. by the ministers of Us, the most Christian King, and the States General of the United Provinces: And whereas, for the putting an End to the Calamities of War, as soon and as far as may be possible, it hath been agreed between Us, his most Christian Majesty, and the States General, as follows, that is to say:

That Hostilities should cease at Land within the Times, and in the Manner in the said Preliminary Articles for that Purpose agreed upon; and at Sea, from the respective Times and within the respective Places, herein after particularly mentioned.

And to prevent all Occasions of Complaints and Disputes which might arise upon Account of Ships, Merchandizes, and other Effects, which might be taken at Sea; it hath been also mutually agreed, that such Ships, Merchandizes, and Effects, as should be taken in the Channel, and in the North Seas, after the Space of Twelve Days, to be computed from the said Nineteenth Day of April last, on which Day the said Preliminaries were signed, and that all Ships, Merchandizes, and Effects, which should be taken after six weeks from the said nineteenth Day of April, beyond the Channel, the British Seas, and the North-seas, as far as Cape St. Vincent; and for the space of six Weeks more, beyond the said Cape, to the Equinoctial Line, whether in the Ocean or the Mediterranean; and for the space of six Months, from the said Nineteenth day of April, beyond the said Equinoctial Line or Equator, and in all other Places of the World, without any Exception, or other more particular distinction of Time or Place, should be restored on both Sides.

And whereas, pursuant to such Agreement, Hostilities have ceased in the Low-Countries, in such Manner as was agreed upon by the said Preliminaries;

We have thought fit, by and with the Advice of our Privy Council, to notify the same to all Our Loving Subjects, and We do declare, That Our Royal Will and Pleasure is, and We do hereby strictly Charge and Command all Our Officers, both at Sea and Land, and all other Our Subjects whatsoever, to forbear all Acts of Hostility, either by Sea or Land, against His Most Christian Majesty, his Vassals, or Subjects, from and after the respective Times above mentioned, and under the Penalty of incurring Our highest Displeasure.

Given at Our Court at St. James's, the Fifth Day of May, in the Twenty first Year of Our Reign, and in the Year of Our Lord, 1748.

GOD save the KING.

Yesterday Afternoon the Turkey Company received a Packet of Letters over Land, by Way of Vienna, with Advice, that his Majesty's Ships the Leostaff and Roebuck had taken in the Levant eleven French Ships; and that the Bosphorus, Capt. Richards, had taken a French Ship, whose Cargoe was deemed worth upwards of 50,000 Dollars, and was carrying to Cyprus: This is the second Prize which Capt. Richards has taken in his outward bound Voyage: the other he carried into Malta.

The Letters from Paris Yesterday give an Account, that the Scarcity of Corn in the southern Parts of France, as well as the great Decay of Trade, greatly contributed to the French complying to make Peace.

By Letters which came by Yesterday's Mail we have Advice, that positive Orders are come over from France and Holland, to their Agents in this Kingdom, to buy up all the Corn they possibly can, for 15 Market-days successively, in order to supply the immediate Wants of those Places.

The Amount of the whole Expence of building the Mansion House for the Lord Mayor of London (including the Sum of 3900 l. paid for purchasing of Houses) is 42638 l. 18. 1. 8 d.

May 5. Yesterday a Messenger was dispatched with an Express to Commodore Townsend at Flushing, with Orders not to commit any Hostilities against the French.

There are Letters from India, which bring the agreeable News, that 8 Grubbs belonging to Angria the Pirate, had been taken by the English.

The Sale of all Cambricks and French Lawns is prohibited after Midsummer next. And the Wearing of them after Lady-Day, 1749.

It is said an Express is arrived at Paris from Madrid that the Queen Dowager of Spain lately died at Buen Retiro.

Liege, May 10. 'Tis assured, that before the signing of the Preliminaries at Aix la Chapelle, the Negociations for a private Accomodation between the Courts of London and Madrid were in great Forwardness, and that the Treaty between the two Powers would probably have been signed, if the others had not. The Armistice which is to be this Day published at the Head of the Armies, is only for six Weeks.

Maestricht, May 11. The Garrison marched out of this Town Yesterday with all the Honours of War; and the French Garrison, which have entered here, preserve a very exact Discipline. Marshal Lowendahl has taken up his Quarters at the Palace of the States, and Marshal Saxe, who is to make his Entry here this Day, will lodge at the Governor's. It is certain that, considering the prodigious Warmth of this short Siege, and especially the vast Number of Bombs that have been thrown in here, the Place has escaped much better than could have been expected, and yet abundance of Houses have been beat down, and many more damaged. The Baron de Aylva, and the Garrison he commanded, have acquired great Reputation; several of the French Officers say, that they have lost more Men in becoming Masters of this Town, than the Allies had in it: and if it had not been to preserve the remaining Fortifications, and to prevent a needless Effusion of Blood on both Sides, the Garrison might very well have defended themselves three Weeks, if not a Month longer; and had the Waters of the Maese risen but a Foot higher the French had been compelled to raise the siege, in which, as it was, they endured prodigious Hardships, so that the Hospitals are quite full of sick and wounded Men.

Hague, May 15. Letters from Aix la Chapelle inform us, That the preliminary Articles are 24 in Number, and give the substance of them as follows:

All the Conquests made during this War, as well in the East and West Indies, as in Europe, shall be reciprocally restored. The Fortifications of Namur, Ypres, Bergen-op-Zoom, and Maestricht, shall not be touch'd. The new work at Dunkirk, on the Sea side, shall be demolished.

Commerce shall be open'd again immediately after the Ratification of the Preliminaries. Peace between Great-Britain and Spain shall be re-established on the Footing of the Treaty of 1718, as also the Asiento Treaty, for the Number of Years it ought yet to be in Force.

The Crown of Great-Britain shall be acknowledged hereditary for ever in the House of Hanover; and the Person who assumes the Title of King of Great-Britain, shall renounce it in the most solemn Manner, so as it may never more be mentioned: But, in order to obtain this Renouncation, a certain Subsidy or Pension is settled on him, that he may be certain of a competent Support, without being any longer indebted to the Pope for his Subsistence.

The Dutchies of Parma and Placentia shall be ceded to the Infant Don Philip, as an Establishment for him: to which will be added the Dutchy of Guastalla, vacant since the Demise of the last Prince of the House of Gonzigua; but in case his Royal Higaness should die without lawful Male Issue, or the King of the Two Sicilies attend the Throne upon the Death of his Catholick Majesty without Issue Male, or Legitimate, then the Infant Don Philip is to succeed in the Kingdom of Naples and Sicily, and the aforesaid Establishment shall revert to the House of Austria.

The King of Sardinia shall be re-instated in all his dominions, and shall keep the Pavesan, the Vigevenasco, and the County of Anguerra, which were ceded to him by the Treaty of 1733. The Duke of Modena shall be likewise restored to all his Dominions, and the Genoese re-established in all their Possessions, Rights and Prerogatives.

The Emperor shall be acknowledged by France and Spain in Quality of supreme Head of the Empire; and the Pragmatic Sanction shall be guaranteed again by all the respective Powers, except such Territories as have been dismember'd from the Austrian Succession. Silesia shall also be guaranteed to the King of Prussia.

The Exchange of the Ratifications of the Preliminary Articles shall be performed before the Expiration of three Weeks; and in the mean while there shall be a provisional Suspension of Arms, &c.

His Majesty's Sloop the Merlin, Capt. Balfour, who brought the Express from Admiral Knowles, is arrived at Tenby in Wales. In his Passage he took a French Ship, and ransomed her for 1500 l. sterling; after which she fell in with a French Privateer of great Force, with whom she had a very smart Engagement, and had several Men killed, among whom was Major Scott, who commanded the Troops at the Attack of Port Louis.

On the Surrender of Maestricht, to save the Honour of FRANCE.

Must Saxe's Credit then from Stain be clear,
Tho' Nassau's Arms and Cumberland's are near?
The Baron bold, * who first defended well,
Must he relinquish------what he scorn'd to sell?
Oh Shame! Reproach!-----Yet Russia's Troops advance,
And England's Naval Force still humbles France,
Can Britain's Honour this Affront survive?
Ah! No, That cannot live, and Gallia's thrive.
How strangely retrograde this Honour runs!
Our Fathers conquer'd-----to disgrace their Sons.
